Making Internships work For the student For the employer

The Hogan Entrepreneurial Program is a practical program designed to equip and motivate good students to “hit the ground running” when they leave Chaminade. It provides exposure to the life and culture of the entrepreneur, while providing the tools and skills essential to starting new things.

It is a leadership program that fosters student participation in business ventures which make good social sense, and social ventures which make good business sense.

No part of the Hogan Program is more fundamental to these objectives than its Internship Program. It is here that students are exposed to the entrepreneur in action, doing things that have been discussed in the classroom. It is here that they learn to swim when tossed into the choppy seas of everyday business life. It is here that their skill will be tested and their character will be judged.

It is encouraging to see companies eagerly taking our interns, and helping to shape their views of entrepreneurial life. We try to prepare the Hogan Entrepreneurs to provide a good return on the investments which have been made in them.

We hope this brochure will encourage potential employers to call on us for a different kind of intern: an intern who understands the importance of living up to very high expectations.

Director

Student Responsibilities

The Hogan Internship is designed to give students valuable first-hand experience working with an entrepreneur. It is expected that the nature of the work will allow the student to test the concepts and lessons learned in the classroom.

Each Hogan Entrepreneur is expected to take personal responsibility for getting value from the experience by:

Meeting with the prospective employer in advance to be sure that the nature of the job and the working relationship allow objectives to be attained.

Submitting the Internship Approval form to the Hogan Entrepreneurial Program (HEP) office.

Working with the employer to provide the HEP office with the completed Memorandum of Agreement for Internship form.

Meeting with the employer at the end of their Internship for a verbal performance assessment, and to provide the employer with feedback.

Submitting the Internship Supervisor's Evaluation form to the employer to be returned to the HEP office.

Writing a report on the internship experience for submission to the HEP office.

Employer Responsibilities

The employer providing work experience for the Hogan Entrepreneur agrees to structure it in a way which allows the student to see the entrepreneur in action. While the student is expected to perform substantive work in an assigned area, it is hoped that the student will have access to the entrepreneur, and will have an opportunity to discuss concepts learned in the program.

The employer agrees to:

Structure a substantive job and learning experience.

Submit the Memorandum of Agreement for Internship form to the Hogan Entrepreneurial Program (HEP) office.

Counsel the student as requested.

Meet with the students at the end of the Internship for an assessment of their work.

Submit the Internship Supervisor's Evaluation form to the HEP office.

“I have been helping with the marketing of Six D, doing research on the needs of clients. I’ve seen entrepreneurs in action. It was a lot of work, but it paid off in the end.”

Kelsi Kobashigawa

“Working at American Savings Bank was a great experience. I have gained new skills in project management, organization and communications.”

Angela Arevalo

“My internship at The Sultan Company was special. I am a Computer Science guy and they put me to work selling $12.99 oysters with pearls!”

Vu Duong

“Working for Pipeline Café has been exciting. I learned about sound, lighting, promotions, and finance, and I have been able to use the knowledge for my own entertainment venture.”

Elijah Alaimo

Employers Say

“We have a fast paced business providing creative marketing solutions for clients of all types. We need interns who are self-starters. Our recent intern brought high energy and creative ideas that served us and the Hogan Program well.”

*Dan Goo
Vice President
D&J Specialties*

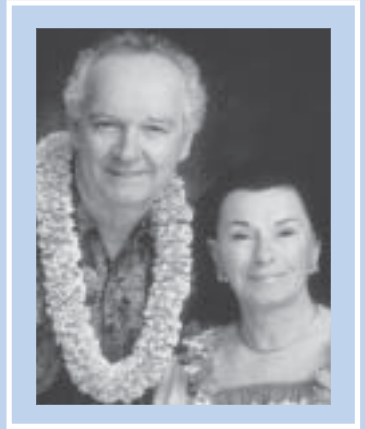

“We were able to offer a highly qualified technical student a chance to substantially broaden his skills. This was an excellent experience for the student and for us.”

*Edward Sultan
President
The Sultan Company*

“The American Savings Bank is always interested in working with good interns. Our two Hogan Entrepreneurs, were among the best. Their attention to detail and their project management skills were exceptional.”

Recent Awards for the Hogans

Lynn and Ed Hogan, founders of Pleasant Holidays, were recently honored with two distinguished leadership awards. The first, the 2003 Greater Los Angeles Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of the Year Award was given for an extraordinary level of entrepreneurship sustained over decades of change. In his acceptance remarks, Ed Hogan said, “Lynn and I are thrilled to receive this award which recognizes our efforts over the years. We are strong supporters of the entrepreneurial spirit which creates commerce and stimulates the economy.”

The second award, the 2003 Anastasia K. Mann Leadership Award was presented by the Travel and Tourism Marketing Association. This award recognizes innovative tourism leaders who have made a lasting positive impact on the travel and tourism industry. In presenting the award, Ms. Mann said, “Leadership is a gift. It is a powerful human tool enabling an individual to reach multiple goals - and guides many deserving and caring people along an upward path. Ed and Lynn Hogan have this gift and have used it over the years to advance our industry through their innovative and motivational ideas.”

The Hogan Family Foundation funds the Entrepreneurial Leadership Program at Gonzaga University in Spokane, Washington and the Hogan Entrepreneurial Program here at Chaminade University.
